

THE UNITED STATES IN THE FORE: THE OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP.

WATCHING THE NUMBERS GO UP: THE CROWD FOLLOW THE PROGRESS OF THE ROUNDS ON THE SCORE BOARD AT HOYLAKE DURING THE LAST DAY'S PLAY OVER THIRTY-SIX HOLES.

WATCHING THE PLAY WITH HIS PERISCOPE: P. ALLISS, THE ENGLISHMAN FROM BERLIN.

EQUAL SECOND, BEHIND BOBBY JONES, WITH A SCORE OF 293: MACDONALD SMITH (U.S.A.).

EQUAL SECOND IN THE TRIO OF AMERICANS WHO GAINED THE FIRST THREE PLACES: LEO DIEGEL (AGUA CALIENTE, MEXICO) WHO TIED FOR SECOND PLACE WITH MACDONALD SMITH.

CYRIL TOLLEY, WHOSE TOTAL SCORE WAS 317, LOSES HIS BALL: THE GALLERY AT HOYLAKE TURN THEIR TRAMPLING FEET TO GOOD EFFECT AT THE 5TH.

AN AMERICAN DIGS DEEP FOR HIS BALL: HORTON SMITH, WHO TIED WITH F. ROBSON FOR THE FOURTH PLACE.

The American visitors continued their success at Hoylake by occupying the first three places in the Open championship; L. Diegel and Macdonald Smith tied for second place with a score of 293, two shots more than Bobby Jones. The first Englishman was F. Robson (Cooden Beach) who shared the fourth place with another American, Horton Smith, and it was not until it came to Archie Compston in the sixth place that England seriously came into the picture. It is now seven years since a native player won the British Open, A. G. Havers being the last.